Proposed Fee for Letter of Protest.pdf

To Whom It May Concern,

As a new small business owner in the online retail space, I am quite upset that the USPTO is proposing a $100-200 fee to file a Letter of Protest. Many trademarks that have been filed for, particularly in class 025, are common use words and/or phrases and should have never been considered based on USPTO's own guidelines. These are attempts to eliminate competition rather than function as a trademark or branding. I have listed a few examples for your convenience below.

EXAMPLES:

- 1. GINGER 5522713
- 2. DUH 5535385
- 3. THIS IS JUST GENIUS 5741096

NEW APPLICATIONS:

- 1. GODDESS (US Serial Number 88619833) Note that Goddess has already been registered for the same class.
- 2. SOLSTICE (US Serial Number 88509910)

Just to name a few...

The words above, any many more, should instead have received a "failure-to-function" refusal on the grounds that the word(s) do not function as a trademark or service mark. The influx of letters of protest the USPTO started receiving in 2019 is justified and due the USPTO and their examining attorneys' failure to follow its own guidelines. The only recourse we small business owners have is to file a Letter of Protest against these frivolous applications, because the USPTO has failed to recognize these attempts to eliminate competition.

I am asking that the Commissioner of Trademarks remove any consideration of charging a $100-200 fee to file a Letter of Protest until changes have been made to ensure the TMEP is being followed. This fee will harm my ability as other small business owners to continually protest when the government agency whose duty it is to uphold the trademark laws is negligent in doing so.

In order to reduce the number of Letters of Protest received, I propose that the USPTO review their own guidelines and ensure that its examining attorneys understand those guidelines. Any applications that are approved for registration should be required to provide proof of proper branding: such as business cards, letterhead, product labels, etc all with a designed or stylized logo of said word or phrase: within 90 days of approval. A simple image of the word/phrase, like the one below, should not qualify as proof as this is just a screenshot of a word typed in a word processor.

SOLSTICE

Should the owner of the approved registration fail to provide proper proof of branding, then the fee of $100-200 should be charged to him/her.

I thank you for your time and once again encourage you to reconsider the proposed fee of $100-200 to file a Letter of Protest.

I have attached a PDF copy of this letter.
